Observations...

By the Editor

How many are going to volunteer to work up the details necessary to submit to the postal department asking for the change of the routes in the upper part of the county, in order to help re-indentify it? It is going to take the united efforts of the public bodies and of the civic organizations to do this. The business men of Bay St. Louis should be particularly interested in this matter. You may rest assured the business men of Picayune are going to be particularly interested as and when we make a move. By the way, we could learn a lot from the little town to the north of us. They are really on the ball. All personal and political feelings are cast aside when it is a move for the good of the community. The idea that competitors cannot sit opposite one another at a table and discuss matters of civic interest does not exist in that community. When the call goes out, all are on common ground and put their shoulder to the wheel. We certainly could stand lessons on the spirit of unity when our civic good is at stake. The only time we see any united action here is when discord arises in the ranks of the racketeers, and then we see many, particularly officers charged with the enforcement of the law, and men whose leadership would serve in good stead in civic matters, rushing about to calm the troubled waters, as happened this past week, when some of the folks broke from the ranks and filed charges. For once try doing some good for your county. The change of the postal routes to serve the upper part of the county to Bay St. Louis, would give a better service to your people and would re-indentify your county. The people of the rural sections of Hancock County could at least feel they were a part of it. We mentioned in our column last week the blocking of the railroad crossing by freight trains. Commissioner Sylvan J. Ladner, very promptly called our attention to letters directed by him to officials of the railroad, dated January 17th, 1950, and July 25th, 1950, calling their attention to the city ordinances, providing trains must not block crossings, and which ordinances provide certain penalties. The replies from the officials of the railroad stated this matter would be remedied. So far we have seen very little cooperation on the part of the train crews. This matter should be definitely settled. A $50. fine against the company for each offense, and a $50.00 fine against the conductor of the train, would certainly ease the situation. Not many fines would have to be assessed. We are publishing a letter from the Woman's Civic League of Pass Christian about the suggested use of the old bridge as and when the new bridge is constructed. This club is moving and we suggested contacts be made from the side, and that efforts be coordinated. Some thoughtful person destroyed the sand catcher in front of the Horton property the other evening. This sand catcher was put there for a purpose and little did someone have to do to go out and destroy what other people have worked out, in order to help build our beaches. Dr. Shipp has directed a letter to the Mayor and Commission Council, which is quoted in this issue, on the subject of rabies. Doc tells us he is presently treating ten people for rabies in Bay St. Louis. Something to think about. Gives you the jitters when you see a bunch of cur dogs running rampant about the city. The American Legion post is trying their best to erect a public pier and to build a sand beach at the head of Washington Street. They need some assistance. Their own money has been expended in the building of their home on this site. The Board of Supervisors very generously donated $1000.00 to help with the sand beach and pier. The City Commissioners, could not at this time, see their way out to give $1875.00 of the city funds. Perhaps a smaller amount could be yanked out with more to come later. Certainly, it is a move which should be supported. There is a crying need for both the beach and pier. Waveland built their's from public subscriptions, and from benefits given for the purpose. It is again an opportunity for the business men of our community to see if they can think alike for once. Good beaches and public piers will mean money in your pockets. The Legion, in the final, will probably reap the least benefit. The bringing of people to our city will mean much more to you.

Dr. Shipp Asks Help In Protecting Residents From All Rabid Dogs

Financial Condition of City Prevents Aid To Legion

A motion to aid the American Legion in the sum of $1875.00 to help in their program for building a wharf and beach, was lost at a recent meeting of the board of Mayor and City Commissioners. Mayor Carver made the motion which was not seconded.

"At the present time, we are not refusing the Legion this amount entirely," the Commissioners stated; "but due to the financial condition of the City, and the condition of the streets at this time, we think it is more beneficial to the citizens of the community to use the appropriation received from the state now for the repairs and maintenance of its streets. At a later date, if possible, we will be very glad to donate a sum to the Legion for this pier and sand beach."

The Legion, whose building program is well underway, sought help from the City to defray the cost of erecting a wharf and sand beach on their property at the head of Washington street on the beach.

The small building that will be used as a concession is just about completed. Fred Fayard, commander stated, the main part of the building, which will tie into the small building, will be known as the American Legion Memorial Home, dedicated to all ex-servicemen of Hancock County.

A group of Legionnaires called on the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and outlined their program for a public sand beach and pier, and the members of the Board present, agreed that it was a needed project. They voted to give $1,000 to start it off, and assured them that they will lend all the help possible in the future.

Crystal Canning Corp. Begins Operation Tues.

The Crystal Canning Corporation will begin operations for the shrimping season Tuesday, August 15th. The plant is located at Lakeshore on Bayou Cadet, at the site of the Joulain cannery plant. The fishing fleet of 22 catch boats and four freighters will leave for the fishing grounds Sunday; these boats are licensed for inside waters in Louisiana and Mississippi.

The catch of shrimp, of large medium and small sizes, will be canned in 5 ounce containers; and the jumbo size shrimp will be frozen for the market.

The plant will employ at least 90 people in the factory and approximately 75 on boats.

The management is hopeful that they will receive the cooperation of the working people in this vicinity, during the shrimping season, and that sufficient labor will be on hand to take care of the catches.

Rev. Father John Bryan left Sunday, August 6, for his home in Thurles County Tipperary, Ireland.

Following his ordination, Father Bryan was sent to the United States. His first assignment was to the Parish of Our Lady of the Gulf in Bay St. Louis, where he has served for three and a half years.

Father Bryan, who has not made a visit to his home since his arrival here, left for New Orleans; from there he went to New York to catch a plane to fly to Ireland.

Dr. C. M. Shipp, in seeking to protect the residents of Bay St. Louis from the danger of dog bites, has written the following letter to the Mayor and City Commissioners to secure their aid in this matter.

To The Honorable Mayor and City Commissioners
City of Bay Saint Louis Bay St. Louis, Miss.
Gentlemen:

"This letter is to call your attention to a menace that effects the health and happiness of the people of our city. This hazard has existed for a long time and should have been corrected years ago.

"Hardly a week passes that someone does not come to my health department with the complaint of dog bite. Usually these patients are the school children who look to us for protection. Vicious and unmuzzled dogs are permitted to leave the home and roam the streets. This should not be permitted. Within the last two weeks a rabid dog was taken to a local veterinarian for treatment. The animal later died of rabies. As a result of this one rabid dog, nine people were treated for the prevention of rabies. Rabies vaccine is not a harmless treatment and must be administered with exceeding care to avoid dangers. The experience of Boards of Health in many Southern States bear out this statement. Alarming symptoms some times follow its use. A few people depend on vaccination of the dog as a sure preventative of rabies, the method cannot be trusted, it is not absolutely dependable. The only way to reduce the rabies hazard is to confine the dog to its proper place and destroy all stray dogs. Your Health Department is in accord with an ordinance that will prevent our school children from being bitten by dogs and compelled to take the fourteen rabies shots as a preventive treatment against this disease."

Very truly yours,
C. M. SHIPP

Attend Funk's Field Day Thurs.

Howard Simmons, County Agent, Al Wintert, Route 3, Picayune, and Hugh Thian, Pearlinton, left Wednesday to attend Funk's "G" Hybrid Field Day at Ingleswood Plantation six miles south of Alexandria, Louisiana, on the Baton Rouge highway. They returned Thursday night.

Field Day is sponsored by the Southern Division of Funk's Seed Company of Illinois. The County Agents of the Mississippi delegation were under the supervision of Dr. Miles, Agronomist at Mississippi State College.

Two varieties of Funk's hybrids are successfully grown in Hancock County, "G" 737 and "G" 714.

The group went on a tour of Funk's breeding nursery where they saw inbreeds, single crosses, hand pollination, and other ways of breeding corn. On the tour of the commercial production field they saw the male and female plants; detasseling of seed rows, and mechanical harvesters.

In the after-tour of the hybrid corn processing plant, the party was shown the process of husking, drying, sorting, grading, treating bagging and storing of hybrid seeds.

Brief talks were made by Agricultural Extension personnel from Mississippi and Louisiana and Funk personnel from the Alexandria and Illinois plants.

Ed Stout Discusses Forestry At Rotary

"Organized fire prevention is a MUST in making permanent forest production possible," Ed Stout, Forest Product Industries of the Southern District, said at a meeting of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club Wednesday.

In 1911, "Mr. Stout continued," 61,000,000 acres were protected; and in 1948 this had advanced to 335,000,000 with 38,000,000 of the total added since 1944.

The speaker stated that this nation is not running out of timber. "There is nothing new in these reports," he said, "for such seemed to be the belief, to a large extent in World War I; and World War II found the country with sufficient timber for its use, but the country was handicapped in getting this by the labor situations. All foresters agree that our timber resources are adequate for our use."

"Growing timber did not become practical until it became possible," he continued. "At one time trees could be bought cheaper than it would cost to grow them."

The A. F. P. I. was set up to encourage greater tree growth protection, and it has three programs to carry this through; Keep America Green; More Trees For America; and the American Tree Farm System.

"Don't awaken false security in the minds of the people," Mr. Stout continued, "there is no need for panic, but we cannot afford to be complacent in the matter of our timber."

Monsignor A. J. Gmelch Returns Thursday From Visit To Europe

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Andrew J. Gmelch, pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic church, returned Thursday, August 3, from a visit of almost three months in Europe.

For the first time in thirty-eight years, the Monsignor paid a visit to relatives in Bavaria, Germany, near Munich. He has a sister and several half brothers and sisters and other relatives living there.

"I have never seen so many flowers and such a beautiful country," he continued. "The people are hard working and are doing well; if they would be left alone, they would be on their feet in no time. They are living in fear of a communist invasion."

After five weeks in Germany, Monsignor Gmelch left June 23 for Rome, Italy, where he, along with three other priests and a bishop, had a private audience with Pope Pius XII. While in Rome, he was present at a public audience and at the canonization of Maria Garette, which he said was indeed an honor.

The Monsignor returned to Bavaria, where he was feted at a gathering with about seventy present. It was here that he saw the Passion Play. "In Germany there is plenty to eat," he continued. They still have the same exchange as before the war, but in Italy and France it was a little difficult to keep track of the variations. In Italy 41,000 lire was equal to about $20.00 in American money; in France an American dollar is equivalent to 370 francs.

Good Forest Management Pays

Wood and wood by-products are the raw materials for plastics, explosives, chemicals, alcohol, paints, fertilizer, livestock foods and hundreds of other useful items. Ultimate consumers of these items in many cases have no idea that the products they use originated in a forest.

Unfortunately, too many forestland owners are equally uninformed. This is particularly true of farmers who, together, own 30 per cent of this country's commercial timberland. In 1946 the United States Forest Service, in a management survey of America's timberlands, classified cutting practices on farm woodlots as 65 per cent poor, 8 per cent destructive, 23 percent fair and only 4 per cent good. Serious though this situation remains, it is improving. Landowners, large and small alike, are learning that there is money to be made in growing trees as a crop. Wood dependent industries, along with public and private forestry organizations and associations, are doing everything possible to get privately owned forestlands along the wood production comeback trail.

In Hancock County, opportunity beckons for the establishment of more tree farms. The International Paper Company has recently purchased over 60,000 acres of land in our county, much of which is well seeded in second growth timber, and the acres which are not will, in the years to come, be planted under the supervision of their foresters. This company is encouraging the planting of trees. The Mississippi Forestry Service, your County agent and your Soil Conservationist are also prepared to aid you in developing your idle acres into tree farms.

100,000 acres of well developed second growth timber will operate a paper mill. Think of the investment—the money in wages, at the plant and in the forests, and of the money for the purchase of the wood which would come to landowners. Ten years of planting and care of the present trees would yield sufficient wood for the continuous operation of a paper mill in Hancock County. We must realize more paper mills must be established in this country if the demand is to be met, and if we in Hancock County establish a definite forestry program, the International Paper Company may in time be the answer to our hopes for an industry in Hancock County.

In the meantime, trees, ready for the mills, are a cash crop today, and will continue to be in the future, even if we were not fortunate enough to have a paper mill located in our county. There is an ever increasing demand for wood and wood products.

Congressional Sidelights

PRICE CONTROLS AND WAR

The following excerpts from a speech which I made on the floor of the House last week on this subject are reproduced in this column, and constitute this week's Newsletter:

"Mr. Colmer; Mr. Speaker, I am sure we all have troubled and perplexed souls today over this momentous question which we are called on to decide. I suspect when we search these souls, we would find first that as free Americans living in a great democracy we are fundamentally and basically opposed to regimentation such as controls bring about. Then I think we would find when we searched a little further and read the press reports of the boys who are dying over there, we would feel it incumbent upon us as patriotic Americans and liberty-loving people, to give them every support we have at our command.

"The question seems to be whether we are going to have a limited control bill such as has been brought in by the Committee on Banking and Currency by the narrow margin of one vote, or whether we are going to have an all-out across-the-board control law.

Again, our individual souls are going to be put to the task of deciding, tomorrow possibly, which horn of the dilemma we will take.

To arrive at a proper conclusion—and certainly I do not profess to have the proper conclusion or analysis—I think we must try to analyze the situation as it presents itself.

Five years ago this month, Mr. Speaker, a small band of us in this House spent two weeks in Russia during our two months' study abroad of economic and political conditions. Some of that time was spent in the Kremlin in conferences with that man of mystery, Mr. Stalin, with Mr. Vishinsky and Mr. Beria, and other members of the Politburo. We saw the regimentation of those people first hand. We came out of there with certain conclusions. Among those conclusions I recall three most distinctly. We wrote them into our report to the Congress in the form of recommendations for the administration and the Congress to consider.

No. 1 that in our judgment Russia did not want war with us any more than we wanted war with them.

No. 2, that Russia was determined, through Stalin and his little band of fellow conspirators, which made up the politburo, to gain world control and domination using communism as a front. That to do this she would do everything within her power to prevent our attaining the one goal in which we were interested, namely, world peace. That she would accomplish this by using every means within her power to bring about world chaos and confusion, placing a hurdle here, an obstacle there, and a barrier elsewhere.

No. 3, that the United States, Great Britain and the other allied powers must abandon our Chamberlain-like appeasement policy and adopt a firm policy in dealing with our late ally, Russia. Further, that firmness and power is the only language that Russia understands.

To implement those recommendations, as chairman of the Post-war Policy Committee, I introduced a resolution in the beginning of the Eighteenth Congress which would declare that, among other things as our policy.

Unfortunately, it would now appear that our prediction proved only too true.

No. Mr. Speaker, it is my thought for whatever that is worth, that this is not necessarily the beginning of world war III. When the Korean incident is settled, one way or the other, then Russia will start in another area of the globe to bring about further confusion with another incident possibly Iran, Greece, Turkey or who knows where? Then, when that is settled another incident somewhere else and perhaps two or three incidents at the same time in different parts of the globe, always using her puppet nations or agents—all in furtherance of obstacles, destruction, confusion and chaos—all leading to her one objective—world revolution.

I point out to you in substantiation of this that in all of the countries which have been taken over by Russia since the closing of hostilities and brought into her orbit of influence not a single Russian gun has been fired by a Russian soldier. Czechoslovakia and all of the others have been taken under the iron thumb and behind the iron curtain through the simple process of bringing about division, confusion, chaos, infiltration and finally revolution. Moreover it is generally conceded by all military authorities that Russian arms could march to the English Channel almost overnight. Again, is there one here who doubts that Russia yesterday or today could prevent the landing of our troops at Pusan if she were ready and willing to risk all in an all-out warfare with this country and our allies?

Therefore, permit me to say to you, my colleagues, that the world picture is not a pretty one. And the coveted goal of peace appears to be years and not months away. It may be later than some people think. Therefore, if we are going to mobilize our efforts it should be on an all-out, across-the-board basis. We must avoid the pitfalls and errors of the past. We found out in the last war that we could not have partial controls. If you are going to regulate the prices of commodities, then you have got to regulate the price of the chief cost of the commodities, labor. Some people in this country, some people in this Government do not want that; but you cannot eat your pie and keep it too. If we are going into this field, then we ought to go all out and see that everybody bears an equal portion of the burden.

Mr. Speaker, we face a very serious situation, one that calls for the most patriotic careful thought that we can exert.

In my humble judgement, for whatever that is worth, we are in for many more Koreans, many more such incidents, unless as I intimated a moment ago we are driven to the initiative. God forbid that coming events will not make that necessary.

In the meantime there is no place for selfishness, greed, a business as usual policy, or politics as usual. The American boys who are fighting and dying on the Korean Peninsula find this to be war regardless of what others may call it. We can do no less than give them and their loved ones our all-out support."

LETTERS

USE FOR BRIDGE

To The Editor

Reference is made to a recent letter published in the "Echo", written by Mr. Edward Desobry, suggesting that the old Bay St. Louis Bridge be utilized for civic benefit.

The Women's Civic League of Pass Christian would like to express their approval of the proposed project to divide the materials from the bridge between Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian, or possibly between Hancock and Harrison Counties. These bridge sections could then be used by the communities to construct community piers, which would be used for fishing, crabbing, and swimming. We think that such structures would certainly increase the recreational appeal to our cities.

We would like to inquire if any civic organization or any group of individuals have taken any steps toward securing the old bridge for such a purpose. If the "Echo" knows of any such activity on the Bay side, please let us know; we are more than anxious to cooperate.

We are writing the State Highway Commission requesting further information about the feasibility of the project.

Very sincerely yours,

Return From European Tour

Miss Irma Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kenney, and Larry Mauffray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Mauffray, returned Monday night from a six weeks' visit to points of interest in Europe.

They were part of a group of six hundred members of the New-York club and National Federation of Catholic College Students, making the Holy Year pilgrimage. They left Bay St. Louis for New Orleans June 16; then they went to New York by train and stayed there for a few days. The group sailed from New York June 19 on the Roma. On the way over, they were entertained with movies, dances and a masquerade ball.

The boat landed in Cherbourg, France, June 29, and from there they took a boat train for Paris. Their stay in Paris lasted for four days; three days of which they spent sightseeing with a guide. The party was allowed to see the famed city alone, and the nights they spent in Paris, they were free to do what they desired; Larry, and others in his party, spent the time taking in the shows and other spots of entertainment for which Paris is famous. Among the many historic spots of interest in Paris, they visited the Eiffel Tower and the Arch of Triumph.

From Paris the group journeyed on to Lourdes and spent two days and a night sightseeing in the spot famous for its shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. They attended Mass at the shrine, the torch light service at night and Benediction. While here they took a trip over the Pyrenees mountains, and touched a part of Spain. It was in Lourdes that Miss Kenney was stricken with an attack of appendicitis and had to remain in her hotel for three days.

The French Riviera and Monte Carlo were the next stops as they reached Nice, France, which took in three days of their journey.

In Florence and Nice, Italy, they spent three days sightseeing on motor scooters. This made sightseeing much nicer and they were able to see more of the country. They visited the shrine of St. Francis Assisi on the outskirts of Florence.

Their next, and perhaps to them the most thrilling stop, was Rome, the home of Pope Pius XII. Over 42,000 people were in St. Peter's Basilica waiting for an audience with the Pope. The Pope could not speak to each one individually, but he did greet the group of students and address them personally.

As a part of the tour, they visited famous Roman museums, the catacombs, the coliseum and other points of interest. They visited four basilicas—St. Paul, St. John Lateran, St. Major and St. Peter's—for which they obtained a special indulgence.

Rome was the last stop on the planned tour, and on July 16, they made their way back to Paris to take a train for Cherbourg where they caught the boat to New York, and from there a train home.

LARRY MAUFFRAY

On the way to Paris after they docked in Cherbourg, the coach in which Larry's group was traveling, caught on fire. The students were all in the dining car getting lunch, and when they returned their coach was gone. After removing all luggage, the burning coach was cut loose. The train stopped at a nearby station and picked up another car.

On the whole, the parts of Europe covered by the tour, are back to normal, Mauffray said. The only place where they saw ruins that amounted to anything was in Florence Italy, near the hotel where they stopped. It was still littered with debris.

The Europeans were all nice to the tourists, and they had little difficulty in translations or exchanging currency. They went to the places where they could get the most for their money. If you knew where to go, good food could be secured, also. The only expensive things in Europe are those that are American made.

In Florence, Italy, Mauffray and his group were sightseeing, and they asked a resident of the town to give them some directions. The Italian spoke perfect English—he had been a prisoner of war in the United States during World War II. He showed them all around Florence during their stay there.

County Agent's Notes
By Howard F. Simmons

Pensacola Bahia Grass was first discovered growing on the streets of Pensacola, Florida in 1935.

Two years later a small quantity of these seeds were harvested and supplied to the Agronomist of the Florida Experiment Station for trial. The grass from these seeds showed so much promise that the following year one thousand pounds were harvested from the streets and vacant lots of Pensacola. Most of these seeds were also supplied to the Florida Experiment Station for seeding pasture experiments.

The results with this grass have been exceptionally good.

The main Experiment Station at Gainesville, in grazing trials, report that it ranks with Pangola and Coastal Bermuda in best production per acre.

The West Central Florida Station at Brooksville reports: "During the summer of 1949 a grazing test was conducted with Pensacola Bahia and common bahia grass. In spite of some reports that Pensacola Bahia and common bahia grass is somewhat unpalatable, average gains of 1.12 pounds per steer daily were secured as compared with 0.41 pounds for the common type. Throughout the entire grazing season Pensacola Bahia produced more than five times the gains obtained with the common variety, grazing was available thirty days earlier in the spring and the steers on it continued to add weight in the fall after those on common Bahia ceased to gain."

Pensacola Bahia does not have underground root runners but stolens that creep along on the surface of the ground and can be readily destroyed by cultivation.

The Georgia Coastal Plains Station at Tifton, Georgia reports that Pensacola Bahia is a heavy seeded and very aggressive, crowding out practically all other grasses growing in association with it, including the pasture pest, bitter weed. While Pensacola Bahia grass is aggressive and does choke out bitter weed and some of the less aggressive grasses it has been grown in combination with White Dutch Clover for several years with the clover holding its own in excellent condition.

Pensacola Bahia grass is adapted to practically all types of soil commonly found in the Central Plains section of the United States, including Hancock County. It does best on good type moist soils that are well adapted to other grasses but gives much better results than any of the other grasses on high dry poor sand soils. It will withstand being covered with water for several weeks. This grass, when once established, will not die, even though it is not fertilized. An application of fertilizer is recommended and is essential each year for maximum production.

This grass is at present being grown on several farms in Hancock County and is proving tops for summer grazing.

ARE YOU AN INFANTILE DRIVER?

In 1949, 427 Mississippians lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents. When a disease causes that many deaths, we say it's an epidemic stage. For a number of years there has in reality been an epidemic of automobile accidents and fatalities. These accidents are frequently caused by infantile drivers—people who are emotionally immature. Insofar as emotional and mental factors are responsible for accidents, the health department has a contribution to make in preventing them. See if your actions as a driver fit any of the following descriptions of infantile drivers who frequently cause serious accidents.

(1) The person who, like a child, thinks his desires always come first. His parents always accommodated him now he hogs the road, double-parks, blows his horn at intersections. (2) The person who learned to think for himself. Now he automatically obeys signals from another driver, may drive into intersections or pass other automobiles without thought of other traffic. (3) The type who was overprotected or severely dominated as a child. Usually in their late teens or early twenties, these drivers are show-offs, daredevils, lawbreakers. (4) The type who was bullied by brothers and sisters. A truly dangerous driver, he now works out old resentments by side swiping other autos and speeding. (5) The type who was poor and had to "make-do" with used bicycles and second-hand textbooks. He must now prove that his car will get there just as fast as the most expensive automobile. Rarely having accidents himself, he causes them among trembling witnesses of his passing.

This Commission not later than 10:00 A. M. August 21st 1950 for furnishing the City of Bay St. Louis asphalt cement in accordance with the Miss. State Highway Department specifications with Serial Designation AC15-and for asphalt with serial designation MC-S-1, for a period beginning on or after awarding of the contract and extending for one year.

Today at 82, that same congressman, square-built, ruddy faced, balding and grey-haired Emanuel Celler, holds one of the most powerful posts in the House of Representatives as chairman of the influential Judiciary committee of that body. And he has lived to see some of these measures for the little people become the law of the land.

Regarded as one of the outstanding liberals in either house of congress, Representative Celler has been dubbed Socialist, Communist, leftist and what-not. Let him answer:

"I am not a Socialist. I am not a Communist. I am a New Dealer and a Fair Dealer. If that makes me a Rinky Dink, then I'm a Rinky Dink. I am not ashamed, I am proud."

The record of Congressman Celler in the house is rather unique in that during all his years of more than a quarter of a century, he has never been a member of any other house committee except for a short time he was a member of the accounts committee. He started out as a freshman member of the Judiciary committee.

WALTER SHEED, WNDU Correspondent

New Trust Buster

A NEW TRUST busting David has arisen in the House of Representatives to slug it out with the Goliath of monopoly. He is Emanuel Celler, representing the 15th New York congressional district in Brooklyn, and as head of the house Judiciary committee and chairman of a subcommittee investigating monopoly power, he is making the bosses of some of the nation's largest industries dance to his tune.

The purpose of Congressman Celler's subcommittee is to determine whether revision of the anti-trust acts is required "to insure maintenance of free and competitive enterprise in America."

Mr. Celler, as committee chairman, has taken almost entire charge of the extensive hearings already held and has had many a verbal battle with such industrial stalwarts as Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel, and others of like stature. As a result of some of the testimony, he has already started introduction of some amendments to the anti-trust statute designed to draw a tighter rein and close some of the so-called loopholes in the sixty-year old act.

Twenty-eight years ago, a 34-year-old freshman congressman from New York came down to Washington smarting from the "reactionary wrongs" of the Harding administration and imbued with an obsession to alleviate some of the ills which beset the little people, particularly those more than 400,000 constituents

MRS. HAAS IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Norton Haas, Hancock County Welfare Agent, is a patient at the Kings Daughters Hospital. Her condition is not serious and it is expected that she will soon be back at her office.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sanford Green and their wedding party are shown following the ceremony at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic church.

Miss Ethel Schindler daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Schindler of this city, and Claude Sanford Green, son of Lacey Green and the late, Elizabeth Gutierrez Green were married at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church Saturday, August 5, at a Solemn High Nuptial Mass.

Rev. Father Desmond officiated with Rev. Fr. Patrick Grant as deacon and Rev. Mr. L. A. Green as sub deacon. Acolytes were Wm. Koch and John McNamara; David Dabna was Master of Ceremonies.

The traditional wedding march was played for the procession and recessional by Prof. Joseph Hammersbach, and the choir of St. Augustine Seminary, under the direction of Father Posner, sang the proper parts of the Nuptial Mass.

The altar of the church was decorated with white gladioli and seven branch candelabra holding lighted white candles.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Leo Schindler, of New Orleans. Her wedding dress was of white nylon marquisette over white satin. It was styled with a full skirt which fell in a long train with two front lace panels extending from the waist line in an inverted V arrangement. The skirt and train were finished with nylon ruffles.

The tight lace bodice was finished with a ruffle, giving it the off the shoulder effect; a nylon yoke completed the bodice. With this she wore long mittens of the same lace. Her veil of illusion which reached the waist line, was held to the head by a wreath of orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

The maids' dresses, carrying out the shades of the rainbow, were made of shadowed organza with light fitting bodices and long full skirts with ruffles at the neck of the bodices and at the hem of the skirts. Their large picture hats and gloves were of the same material as the dresses. They carried cascade bouquets of Marconi daisies.

The maid of honor, Miss Joyce Peterson, wore green; the junior bridesmaid, Jackie Carver of New Orleans wore pink; Misses Janet Tailliac, blue, Myra Peterson, yellow, and Flora Taconci orchid.

Prepare Now For Fall Shows

State College, Miss.—Fall Dairy Shows are just around the corner, said L. A. Higgins, Extension dairyman, who reminded 4-H Club members that "now is the time that conditioning and training of 4-H dairy animals should be well under way."

Dates for these shows, according to Mr. Higgins are: McComb, September 11 to 13; Kosciusko, September 18 to 20; Newton, September 27 to 29; Memphis, September 25 to 30; Tupelo, October 3 to 7; Jackson, October 13 to 20.

Due to the crowded conditions prevailing at the Junior All-American show it is recommended that Mississippi entries be limited to 16 to 18 dairy animals, the dairyman stated.

"Eliminations for the Junior All-American Show are set for State College, September 8, for North Mississippi and the eliminations for South Mississippi will be held at the McComb dairy show," he said. $100 Bill Offer for Demonstration Club Still Goes With New Rules

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

A crisp, new $100 bill was offered by Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, president of Mississippi State College, and Mrs. Mitchell, a year or two ago to the county enrolling all eligible women in a home demonstration club.

Since no county has proved itself eligible for this award, with Dr. Mitchell's approval, the State Home Demonstration Council at its annual meeting adopted a score for determining the winning county. The winner will be chosen on the basis of:

1. Highest percentage of increase in enrollment from November 1, 1950 to November 1, 1952—50%.
2. Percentage of increase in number of community or neighborhood clubs—30%.
3. Percentage of white farm families (census) represented in Home Demonstration clubs on November 1, 1952—20%.

THREE RUBIES

The State Council set standards for the awarding of ruby and diamond pins to outstanding home demonstration club members.

The score for the three-ruby pin to be awarded included home demonstration club members for 5 years or more, entering at least two state contests, assisting in 4-H Club work, taking part in county-wide club activities, as flower and vegetable show, and being active in leader-training work, as garden leader.

Other requirements include being an officer in the county council, attending district, state and national council meetings.

Other pins, each with higher qualifications, are of five rubies, three diamonds and five diamonds. Mrs. J. P. Rousseau official delegate to the State Council meeting at State College, will outline details of this pin award program at the Hancock County Council. Signs with the words "A Home Demonstration Club Member Lives Here" are going to be put up in front of homes along all the main highways in Mississippi during October—particularly about the middle of the month as delegates to the National Home Demonstration Council are traveling to the Mississippi Coast.

One of these signs was displayed at the State Council meeting. The State Council is arranging for a Negro chorus to sing spirituals. Every county is cooperating in preparing the souvenirs for the National Council, at which approximately 2600 delegates from over 30 states are expected.

Hancock County will turnish pralines as their part of the souvenirs.

On the list of souvenirs will be a small bag of enriched cornmeal, cotton boll corsages, wooden paper weights and hot dish mats, jars of fig preserves, pine needle brooms, shell place cards, shelled pecans and pralines.

Winter Oats Grown In Pasture Sod At Experiment Station

Clippings on Experimental Plots Show Possibilities of Sowing and Fertilizing Oats Without Preparation of Seedbed.

State College, Miss.—Recent results on small plots have shown that oats can be successfully grown in a pasture sod for winter grazing, the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station reports. Experimental machinery has been developed for seeding and sowing oats and fertilizer in a pasture sod in one operation without prior seedbed preparation.

Agronomists, engineers and branch station superintendents worked cooperatively on tests which were put but last fall at four locations: Verona, Brooksville, Newton and Oakley, to compare seeding oats in pastures with other methods.

Oats were seeded at a rate of four bushels per acre and all plots were fertilized at the rate of 60 pounds of nitrogen from sulfate of ammonia, 60 pounds of P205 from superphosphate, and 50 pounds of K20 from muriate of potash. Fertilizer was placed about an inch to the side and an inch below the seed.

The first clippings of these tests were made in January. R. F. Dudley, assistant agricultural engineer, reported the plots planted directly in the sod in the 8-inch and 16-inch bands gave a higher yield of early green matter than the well-prepared seedbed. The 8-inch spacing sown directly in the sod gave higher production for the three clippings of the oats; however, some reduction was noted on pasture yields which followed the oats. The 16-inch spacing in the sod produced practically as much as the 8-inch spacing and no damage was done to the sod following the oats. The 16-inch spacing caused very little disturbance to the sod when sown. The undisturbed band between the oats would reduce most of the bugging of animals during wet weather, Mr. Dudley said.

Seeding in the sod and putting down fertilizer in one operation eliminates four to five operations compared to the conventional method of discing several times, seeding and cultipacking and the cost will be reduced accordingly. This type of seeding practically eliminates soil erosion.

The Experiment Station is now working on modification and construction of a large machine for mowing seeding in sod, built on the same principles as the experimental one used last year. Larger acreages will be seeded and put under actual grazing and records will be kept.

4-H CLUBS TAKE THE LEAD IN RURAL RECREATION

The importance of providing recreation for the leisure hours farm folks have these days has become one of the major concerns of thousands of 4-H Club leaders and members. During the past three years, a plan has been worked whereby adults and youth interested in directing recreational activities in their clubs and communities can take a special course set up for that purpose.

Cannot Disclose Number Of Naval Reservists Called

According to a statement issued by the Sixth Naval District headquarters in Charleston, S. C., the number of Naval Reservists called to active duty in the seven southeastern states of the district cannot be disclosed now due to security regulations issued by the Department of Defense. The announcement was made following a flood of inquiries from press representatives in southeastern cities.

It was pointed out, however, that the number of Naval Reservists ordered to duty would be reduced in direct proportion to the number of volunteers.

Orders to active duty within this Naval District will follow Navy Department procedure announced on July 19. The Navy Department announcement states, "Quotas will be filled as far as possible from the Organized Reserve, who are considered as qualified for active duty, and Fleet Reserve, with members of the Volunteer Reserve not to be recalled involuntarily except as necessary to fill specific quotas not procurable from Organized and Fleet Reserve sources; waves and enlisted retired personnel will not be involuntarily recalled at this time. Members of the Organized Reserve are considered to be available for active duty."

No deferments will be granted except in cases involving key billets in industrial activities vital to national defense and in cases wherein community welfare would be seriously affected.

Applications for voluntary recall to active duty, as previously announced, will still be accepted from male officers and from male and women enlisted Naval Reservists for a minimum period of one year. In addition, the Navy will not accept applications for a minimum period of a year of active duty from Wave Reserve officers in grades of Lieutenant Commander and below.

The grades and categories of both officer and enlisted personnel who are recalled will be dictated by current and prospective needs.

This training and club participation has been brought about through the National 4-H Recreation and Rural Arts program now in full swing in Mississippi. Sponsor of the program, U. S. Rubber Company, is providing about $29,000 for leader training clinics, club and individual awards.

Last year more than 10,200 young people and 6,400 adults attended these clinics. They received instruction in group singing, dancing games, sports, dramatics, handicrafts and many other activities.

While they are having fun, the 4-H'ers are also working hard to make a good showing for themselves and their club. To encourage these endeavors, U. S. Rubber presents merit certificates to club and members; $25 cash awards to counties; and Chicago 4-H Club Congress trips to eight national champions.

THAT'S no way to treat a friend... and we never had a better friend than our forests.

Forests give us homes. They furnish them. They warm them. They give us paper products and textiles. They give us plastics and chemicals. They even can give us food.

Much as we value forests, we cause more than 20,000 forest fires a year simply by tossing away lighted cigarettes and matches. A moment's thought would save millions of dollars of loss. You can help grow trees for tomorrow by making certain that you are never the cause of a forest fire.

Need For Aviation Cadets Is Greater Than Ever

A modern, alert, and well-trained Air Force is a vital necessity to the security of the United States and, according to Sgt. B. Moore, station commander of the Bay St. Louis Army and Air Force Recruiting Station, the need for a new generation of Air Force pilots and navigators has been made clear to the nation as the United States Air Force embarks on a program for the development of greater air power.

Abundant Forests Keep Paper Industry Rolling

Thickening process in a large paper mill prepares woodpulp for manufacture. Paper is end product of a managed forest.

A century and a half ago Congress appealed to patriotic American housewives to save rags for paper manufacturing. The fast-growing new nation needed paper and needed it badly.

Today, 150 years later, Americans are the world's greatest consumers of paper and paper products. Uncle Sam's nieces and nephews use about 251 pounds apiece each year—that, excepting Canada, is eight times the average per capita consumption elsewhere in the world.

Well intentioned as its 1801 appeal may have been, Congress can't take the credit for the paper industry's comeback. In fact, history neglects even to note the results of their appeal for rags.

The whole problem was solved when a Canadian developed a practical method of making paper out of wood. His technique, first used in the United States in the 1860's, was an immediate success.

Today, thanks to that Canadian inventor, an industry with imagination and 461 million tree-growing acres, the United States has paper and woodpulp for all the needs of its 150 million people.

Whether it's newsprint or paper napkins, cardboard boxes or blotters, magazine stock or folding money, the forests of the United States have the ingredients for today's supply and tomorrow's, too.

Essentially the manufacture of paper is a process of breaking down wood fibers of wood cellulose from their natural form and separating them either chemically or mechanically. Later, after washing, beating and bleaching, the fibres are reunited, pressed thin and dried as paper.

That is a simplified version of the paper-making industry which pays more than half a billion dollars in wages every year to 200,000 employees and turns out 21 million tons of paper annually.

Paper making and the manufacture of wood pulp are in the country in which every part of the country has a share.

The whole industry rests firmly on the nation's forestlands, about one-third of which are owned by farmers. Last year these farm woodlot owners supplied three-fourths of the United States.

Encouraging this supply source in its growth of trees for tomorrow, the wood-using industries provide the example of their own well-managed woodlands plus free advice and scientific help to small landowners.

Because of the forests' inherent ability to produce new and continuing crops of trees, the paper industry will not run out of wood like it once so nearly did with rags.

Given Authority
To Keep Officers
Indefinite Time

Army and overseas theater commanders were recently given authority to retain non-regular officers for an indefinite period beyond normal separation dates if they do not volunteer to remain on extended active duty.

At the same time, the Army moved to extend on active duty those officers who possess critical skills and normally would be separated when they reach the maximum age allowed for their respective grades.

It was pointed out that of the 39,000 non-regular officers now on active duty, nearly all would be eligible for discharge during 1951, the last year of a 3-year "category" commitment they signed in 1948 in which they agreed to remain on active duty for three years. Loss of these officers would seriously cripple many installations.

In the order issued recently, Army commanders were given authority to retain these officers without their consent, and place them in a new category with an indefinite expiration date.

Over-age officers with critical skills also will be retained for an indefinite period, but none beyond the age of 60. Army commanders will determine those possessing critical skills within their respective commands.

Also the Department of the Army is seeking reserve officers of company grade or civilian components to volunteer for a one, two or three year tour of active duty. This includes reservists in company grades regardless of the arm or service who can complete a signed category prior to the maximum age requirements of 41 for lieutenants and 45 for captains.

operations of the Division of State Aid Road Construction which is still in a formative stage. Matching of federal aid funds was not anticipated until some time in the early summer of 1951 as the State Aid funds for that purpose will not have accumulated sufficiently before then. In the meantime, preparation of rules, regulations and specifications will continue, and the county State Aid systems agreed upon.
